Catalog Versions: Why does a catalog year matter?

The Catalog must be updated and published each fall and spring semester to reflect the most current policy and program requirements. While newer versions of the catalog may contain updated policies or program changes, students may continue to follow the version for which they have established catalog rights. When viewing graduation and major requirements, students should review the version of the catalog applicable to them.

Catalog Rights: Which catalog year should you follow?

Students pursuing a degree or certificate should review their graduation requirements (<http://catalog.stlcc.edu/general-information/policies/program-information/>) as stated in the Catalog and consult with their Advisor (<https://stlcc.edu/admissions/advising/>). Students may also refer to their Degree Audit (<https://stlcc.edu/admissions/advising/degree-audit.aspx>), which is accessible through Banner Self-Service (https://selfservice.stlcc.edu:9199/SLCC/twbkwbis.P_WWWLogin/).

In all cases, students should consult with an advisor (<https://stlcc.edu/admissions/advising/>) regarding the major requirements applicable to them and any changes from published catalogs that may be appropriate.

Archived Catalogs: How can you view an old catalog?

Course descriptions or catalogs from before Fall 2018 may be obtained by contacting the Registrar's office (<https://stlcc.edu/office-of-the-registrar/>).
