ARCHITECTURAL TECHNOLOGY (ARC)

Course Descriptions

ARC 126. Architectural History I. 3 Credit Hours.
This course is a survey of the influences and development of architecture from pre-history to the beginning of the Industrial Revolution. The language of architecture, aesthetics and structure are presented. Methodologies and the architectural styles of different periods and cultures are examined within the context of social, political and technological forces.
Prerequisites: Reading Proficiency

ARC 127. Architectural History II. 3 Credit Hours.
This course presents a survey of modern architecture from the beginning of the Industrial Revolution to the present. The language of architecture, aesthetics and structure are presented. Methodologies and the architectural styles of different periods and cultures are examined within the context of social, political and technological forces.
Prerequisites: Reading Proficiency