LIBRARY & INFORMATION STUDIES (LIB)

Course Descriptions

LIB 101. Introduction to Library and Online Research. 1 Credit Hour.
Introduction to Library and Online Research introduces the research process, including strategies and tools recommended for successful college-level work. Students will explore a variety of resources, including the open web, online library databases, and the library catalog. Through a combination of hands-on practice and lectures, students will learn to locate, evaluate, and manage information efficiently and effectively.
Prerequisites: Reading Proficiency